

Diego Franciotta (Siracusa, Italy; July 9th 1960).

Current Post: Head of the Laboratory of Neuroimmunology, IRCCS, Foundation “Neurological Institute C. Mondino”, University of Pavia, Pavia, Italy (diego.franciotta@mondino.it).

University Degree: University of Pavia, Medicine and Surgery, cum laude, 1985 (Thesis on neurological subject).

Postgraduate Qualifications: University of Pavia, Specialization in Neurology, cum laude, 1989; Specialization in Clinical Pathology, cum laude, 1994.

Non-tenured Professor of ‘Cerebrospinal Fluid Examination’ and of ‘Molecular Diagnostics’: University of Pavia, School of Specialization in Neurology and Neurophysiology, and University Degree for Laboratory Technicians.

Present Activities: a) IRCCS, Foundation “Neurological Institute C. Mondino”, 1st level Medical Assistant in Clinical Pathology; b) Clinical Neuroimmunologist (Laboratory support for the diagnosis of immuno-inflammatory neurological diseases (multiple sclerosis, meningoencephalitis, ADEM, Devic’s disease etc), polyneuropathies, and paraneoplastic neurological syndromes; c) Researcher: Research lines include immunological investigations (cytokine and chemokine measurements, intrathecally produced virus-specific IgG analysis, drug-specific T cell determinations), protein and proteomic analysis, and setting up of new laboratory tests, mainly in the field of immuno-inflammatory neurological diseases.

Author or co-author of 93 original articles (PubMed, November 2009), 10 book chapters, and 1 pocket-book. Invited speakers at 20 national meetings.